Bond Issue of $500,000,000 Termed "State Socialism"

Efforts of the state bond issue for the purpose of water power resources at the expense of "state socialism" at the expense of the Northwest Electric and Power Association here and there. Tracy E. Ribbles, president of the Pacific States Electric company, has called attention to the initiative of the people of California to issue a bond issue of $500,000,000 for the purpose of water power resources. If this measure is passed, it will be placed in the hands of the people who will have to decide whether or not to spend the money on the project of the state.

Western states, as well as the rest of the world, have felt a bad effect of the fact that the state of California is now looking askance at the project of the state bond issue. Because of the fact that the state of California is now looking askance at the project of the state bond issue, the project of the state bond issue is now looking askance at the project of the state bond issue.

Much Talked of Picture Held Over for U. C. T. at the Orpheum

The much talked-of picture, "Reported Missing," now at the Orpheum theatre, in which Owen Moore is starred, is really one of those super-productions we hear so much about but rarely see. It is full of the type of thrills which have made motion pictures the world's most popular entertainment. One of the scenes, a race between a sea sled and a hydroaeroplane, is worth the price of admission alone. Following this chase comes one in high powered autos. In this latter race Moore, in the part of Richard Boyd, stages a scene which is the replica of those thrilling events which fill the daily papers on summer Mondays. In endeavoring to steer clear of a child in his path he swings his machine over an embankment.

In addition to these thrills there is a shipwreck which contains a series of remarkable sea scenes photographed in a manner which vividly illustrates the rapid artistic advance of the cinema.

This picture was held over for the week-end for U. C. T. convention delegates and visitors.

Jackie Coogan Shakes the Shimmy in Picture at Orpheum Sunday

Ever see Jackie Coogan shimmy? You can see him performing this modern dance in "My Boy" an Associated First National attraction. In which he stars and which is now showing at the Orpheum theatre, where it began an engagement of four days on Sunday.

Jackie was on an errand of mercy, when he encountered an organ grinder and a monkey furnishing entertainment for a considerable group of people. The monkey's antics amused Jackie for a while, but when he saw that the money was not rolling in at a very rapid pace Jackie stepped into the breach. His talents for "shimmying" resulted in a flood of coins to the great joy of the street musician.

This is only one of the many amusing features of this new production, and Jackie demonstrates his right to be called a star.

"Enchantment" and a Conklin Comedy Today at the Alhambra

One of the best pictures dealing with gay and irresponsible modern youth ever screened, was presented for the first time at the Alhambra theatre last night. This is "Enchantment," a Cosmopolitan-Paramount picture starring Marion Davies. It is a story of a modern girl "flapper" who believes in having a good time and has it. Her parents cannot understand her, but she understands them in one word—old-fashioned. They are not quite so slow as she imagines, for when the father decides to take her in hand he does so thoroughly. How the girl, Ethel, reacts to the regimen and what happens to the father's carefully laid plans compose the high spots of the story.

It is the best picture in which Miss Davies has been seen for a long time and it has an absorbingly interesting story. The picture was directed by Robert G. Vignola, and its based on Frank R. Adams' story "Manhandling Ethel." The support was excellent.

had made for her an honored place among the nation's women.

BORNE BY MARINES

After a simple service at the home where members of the family and a few near friends looked upon the quiet face for the last time, the body of Miss Russell was borne to the cemetery on a last journey, to rest briefly in Trinity Protestant Episcopal church that the throng who came to tender their final respects might fulfill their mission.

Here also the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Travers performed the simple, yet inspiring rites for the departed. A vested choir marched silently through the auditorium to the choir stalls. The once famous singer's favorite hymn, "Rock of Ages," was sung by the assembly in unison with the choir and at the closing, was rendered another she admired, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." The choir selection was "The Soul of the Righteous Shall Rest in Peace."

The congregation standing while the casket was borne by the marines from the church, Chopin's funeral march was sounded from the organ.

Arriving at the gates of the tree-dotted cemetery, the funeral cortege was met by "those who came back" of the 16th Field Artillery, an overseas organization of the world war which Mrs. Moore largely aided in equipping and to which she gave their colors.

With the firing of three volleys and the sounding of "taps" from the bugle, the body was tenderly laid to rest in the vault, where it will remain until a suitable mausoleum can be erected.

The honorary pallbearers included James J. Davis, secretary of labor, and Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California.
